

Dear subscribers:

I would like to take the opportunity presented by this newsletter to say goodbye, as my mission in Canada will soon come to an end. Just like this newsletter—whose modernized format has been appreciated, I know—I have worked to find faster, more direct, and more open ways to provide you with information and to work to your benefit. Other initiatives, from the Club des entrepreneurs to Toronto Bastille Day—where I will have a chance to meet with you one last time, on Sunday, July 12th—can attest to these efforts. Your support and your encouragement have been and will continue to be invaluable in this regard.

Please allow me to take a moment to thank the teams whose professional and enthusiastic dedication made all of this possible: firstly, my Deputy Consul Dominique Faille, and communications agents past and present Laurène Meyer-Galland and Ronan Le Guern, and our partner the Alliance Française de Toronto

Until the next time, perhaps, whether it is in this vibrant city of Toronto where so many things are possible, or elsewhere!
